Only when the creatives, the client and the consumer feel love for the creativity, then the magic can happen.

That seems like a creative orgy to me.

As creative copywriting goes, it can't always be translated into ENG without losing it's edge.

So you just have to believe us, that they're great.

